Birth centre set to open in summer

Alternative treatment.

About 15% of the 140,000 babies born in Ontario every year are delivered by midwives

Ottawa will become the second city in Ontario to open a birth centre, billed as an alternative to home or hospital.

The Ottawa Birth and Wellness Centre, announced Thursday by Deb Matthews, Ontario's minister of health, is expected to open at 226 Walkley Rd. this summer. The centre will provide a range of services led by midwives.

Matthews said the centre will take some of the burden off hospitals.

of women, and very often an unnecessary cause," Matthews said Thursday.

The provincial government is covering both the capital and operating costs of the centre, which are estimated at $6 million over the first few years.

Renovations are expected to begin soon with an eye to a mid-summer opening.

In Ontario, only Toronto has a similar facility. Matthews said the province has no plans to open more birth centres in the near future, but it will monitor performance at the two centres to see if they can be used as a model.

Invest Ottawa's innovation centre project gets $15M

Bayview redevelopment. City to give land, 'in-kind' contributions

The provincial government is kicking in $15 million for a new "innovation centre" for Invest Ottawa on the soon-to-be-redeveloped Bayview Yards.

The provincial funding will allow Invest Ottawa to build a new home on the Bayview grounds in anticipation of a major redevelopment for the Mechanicsville site.

Mayor Jim Watson said the business incubator is just the start.

"What I see is an opportunity for us to do something that was presented to the province and the city several years ago, and create an accelerator incubation centre at Bayview, but it's going to be more than that," Watson told reporters Thursday.

"I think there should be a cultural component. We want to make sure there's community space — there's a lot of space on that site."

The announcement came one day after council lent its provisional support to the plan.

According to Watson, the city will include the land, as well as a number of "in-kind" contributions. Watson listed waiving development charges and building-permit fees as possibilities.

Provincial Transportation Minister Bob Chiarelli, who developed his own vision for Bayview Yards during his time as mayor, said the province has confidence in both Invest Ottawa and the city. When asked why he thought the Bayview plan has taken so long to implement, Chiarelli said he did not wish to second-guess former mayor O'Brien's administration, but is happy the city is moving forward.

Chiarelli said cabinet approved the spending two or three weeks ago, but city councillors did not know that when they voted to approve the plan Wednesday.

City staff are currently working on a community-design plan for the rest of the Bayview lands that is expected to be released later this year.

Peepers targeting Sun Life Financial loo

Security-video image of a man police are looking for. OTTAWA POLICE SERVICE

Sun Life Financial said it is co-operating with Ottawa police as they investigate reports of a man who followed women into public washrooms in Centretown to watch them use the facilities.

The Ottawa Police Sexual Assault and Child Abuse Section is looking into the incidents, which police say occurred between Jan. 3 and 17.

According to police, the man either follows women into public washrooms or hides inside waiting for them to enter.

The Sun Life Financial branch at 99 Bank Street has been targeted.

Police obtained surveillance footage of a suspect, but they did not specify where the incidents of voyeurism occurred in their news release Wednesday.

Andrea Zviedris, spokesperson for Sun Life, told Metro in an emailed statement Thursday the building's property managers are also co-operating with police.

"From the people visiting the building to the employees working there, the safety of the community is a priority to us and we are taking this matter very seriously," the statement said.

Police describe the suspect as a dark- or olive-toned-skinned man in his 30s with acne on his cheeks, standing five feet ten inches tall with a medium build and long, dark hair.

Police said he was wearing a cream or white toque, black puffy jacket and runners.

Anyone with any information is asked to contact the Ottawa Police Service Sexual Assault and Child Abuse Section at 613-236-1222, extension 5944, or Crime Stoppers at 613-233-8477 (TIPS), or toll free at 1-800-222-8477.

Algonquin College. Student to represent Canada at WorldSkills

An Algonquin College student and 34 other Canadians who are heading to Germany this summer to compete in an Olympic-style skilled trades and technology competition will be given an official sendoff Friday by DIY guru Mike Holmes and Human Resources and Skills Development Minister Diane Finley.

Cody Malloch, 21, of Perth, Ont., will put his carpentry skills to the test at the July 2-7 event in Leipzig, Germany, where 61 member countries will compete in 45 different categories such as welding, web design, mechanical engineering and landscape gardening.

The soft-spoken second-year apprenticeship student was chosen to compete after winning the silver at a national skills competition in Edmonton last May. Just before that he won the silver at the provincial skills competition in Waterloo.

But for the international competition, the stakes will be a little bit higher. He'll be representing Canada in front of thousands of people for six days.

He said he's "a little" nervous about Leipzig because he'll have to adapt to European building methods.

"There's nothing Canadian ... about the way they build," he said. "It's all metric, for one, which is a big change."

"You just kind of got to know how to do anything when you go over."

Until then, he will continue to work on roofs, decks and new homes for his father's construction company, Malloch Construction. He said he hopes to one day take over his dad's business.

Holmes, Finley and others will deliver keynote speeches during Friday's breakfast at the Westin Hotel in Ottawa, which will also serve as an orientation for Team Canada.

Dispelling myths about dementia

Maintaining

for people suffering from the condition

 STEVE COLLINS
ottawa@metronews.ca

Someone who is suffering from dementia doesn't immediately give up their job, driver's licence and independence, and the Alzheimer Society wants to dispel such misconceptions with more open discussion.

"Before, we didn't talk about breast cancer or prostate cancer or things like that," said society spokesperson Debbie Seto. "With people being a bit more open, hopefully it will be a bit easier to talk openly about it."

That's why this January's Alzheimer Awareness Month campaign urges: "See me, not my disease. Let's talk about dementia."

It's still an uncomfortable topic for many. One in four respondents to a poll by Alzheimer's Disease International cited stigma as a reason to conceal their diagnosis from others, and 40 per cent said people treated them differently after they found out.

The best thing you can do for someone with dementia, Seto said, is to stay in touch.

"Being active — and socially active — can help slow the progression of the disease" she said. "Seeing a friend lets them know that you continue to care for them."

Walkers of all ages hustle around the track in the Carleton University Fieldhouse at last year's Walk for Memories fundraiser. CONTRIBUTED

Spike in Ottawa-area public-transit use: Study

Public-transit use increased by nine per cent between 2005 and 2011 in the National Capital Region, according to a study released Thursday.

The study — commissioned by the municipal governments of Ottawa and Gatineau, as well as the provincial governments of Ontario and Quebec — showed that transit use grew at a slightly higher pace than population growth (7.2 per cent) over that same period.

Daily use of automobiles also increased by 4.7 per cent. Cycling increased dramatically with a modal share of 6.8 per cent during peak morning times in central Ottawa.

"It is good to see that more people are choosing alternative modes of transportation for their daily travel across the city and region," said Mayor Jim Watson, in a release.

Across the capital region, the majority of public-transit users (76 per cent) are riding to work or school in the morning. Those riders account for 64 per cent of evening peak travel.

In terms of crossing the river, 27 per cent of Outaouais commuters travel to Ottawa for work, while only four per cent from Ottawa travel to Outaouais for work.

Ford to hear verdict Friday morning

Toronto Mayor Rob Ford will learn Friday morning if the courts have ejected him from office midway through his four-year term.

The news as to whether a divisional court panel has upheld or nullified a lower-court ruling that Ford breached the Municipal Conflict of Interest Act will be made public at 10:30 a.m.

If Ford loses, Deputy Mayor Doug Holyday will take over temporarily and council will vote on how to pick the next mayor.

Spence signs declaration opening new chapter for First Nations

Spence vs. Brazeau

Journalist captures Twitter tussle

Chief Theresa Spence and Sen. Patrick Brazeau exchanged 140-character insults Thursday morning.

Spence was in hospital, but a tweet from the @ChiefTheresa Twitter account called Brazeau a "typical colonized Indian asshole" in response to his criticism of Idle No More.

The tweet has since been deleted, but a screenshot was captured by Saskatchewan reporter Jeremy Warren.

The pugilistic senator referred to the comment as a "traditional angry victim speech."

Political struggle. Vow to improve conditions for aborigines agreed upon by chiefs, federal opposition parties

Attawapiskat Chief Theresa Spence emerged from hospital Thursday to sign the First Nations declaration that ended her hunger protest after six long weeks — a period during which Stephen Harper barely uttered her name.

Indeed, for a crisis that just two weeks ago had the prime minister squarely at its centre, it seemed a weary and chaotic finale, one largely devoid of anti-Harper vitriol.

The Cree leader, who hadn't had solid food since Dec. 11, spent most of the day recovering in hospital, only to show up unannounced at a celebration that brought First Nations chiefs from across the country.

A chanting, drumming crowd greeted her at a downtown Ottawa hotel, where she thanked family, friends and supporters for their backing during the six chilly weeks she spent on Victoria Island, just upstream from Parliament Hill.

She suggested she now intends to step back from the political struggle.

"There you go, chiefs, you take over and I'll be part of the audience sometimes, so I'll be watching you guys," Spence said, calling for unity among

First Nations leaders.

"It's time to really stay together no matter what hardship that we go through, and no matter what the government intends to do to us to divide us. Always remember that we're here together and we're here for our people, especially the youth."

Emissaries from federal opposition parties kept a low profile at the second ceremony, where Spence signed the declaration that had been so painstakingly crafted to bring her protest to a conclusion.

The end came as other chiefs and federal opposition parties vowed to take up her cause of treaty implementation and improved conditions on reserves. And it followed careful negotiation by interim Liberal leader Bob Rae.

Rae said he told Spence: "It's everyone's struggle. But no one should die."

The chiefs and the politicians signed the 13-point declaration committing them to seeking immediate improvements to native housing and education; a meeting of First Nations chiefs, the prime minister and Governor General; and full implementation of treaty and aboriginal rights within five years.

India. Rape-and-murder trial starts behind closed doors in fast-track court

The trial of five men charged with the rape and murder of a 23-year-old student on a New Delhi bus began Thursday with opening arguments by the prosecution in a special fast-track court set up just weeks ago to handle sexual-assault cases.

A sixth suspect has claimed he is a juvenile and is expected to be tried in a juvenile court.

On Thursday, a magistrate separately rejected a petition by Subramanian Swamy, a prominent politician, that no leniency be shown toward the accused who claims to be a juvenile because of the brutal nature of the crime, said Jagdish Shetty, an aide to Swamy.

Allowing women to serve in combat roles will strengthen the U.S. military's ability to win wars, Defence Secretary Leon Panetta said Thursday, shortly before his official announcement of the landmark lifting of the ban.

"Our military is more capable, and our force is more powerful, when we use all of the great diverse strengths of the American people," Panetta said.

The top U.S. military officer says he believes the rise in sexual assaults in the military can be linked to the longstanding ban on women serving in combat.

Westerners told to get out of Benghazi, Libya

Warning. Three European countries urging their citizens to evacuate eastern Libyan city due to imminent threat Britain, Germany and the Netherlands urged their citizens Thursday to immediately leave the eastern Libyan city of Benghazi in response to what was described as an imminent threat against Westerners.

The warnings come a day after U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton testified to Congress about the September attack on the U.S. diplomatic mission in Benghazi that killed four Americans, including the ambassador to Libya. They also come as French troops battle al-Qaida-linked militants in Mali, and follow the deaths of dozens of foreigners taken hostage by Islamist extremists in Algeria — though it remained unclear if those events were linked to the European nations' concerns about Libya.

The foreign ministries of the three countries issued statements variously describing the threat as specific and imminent, but none gave details.

Germany and Britain urged their nationals still in Benghazi to leave "immediately" while Dutch Foreign Ministry spokesman Thijss van Son said that "staying in this area is not to be advised."

It was not immediately clear how many people could be affected; Britain's Foreign Office said likely "dozens" of its citizens were in the city, while van Son said there are four Dutch citizens registered as being in Benghazi and possibly two more.

SHAME ON YOU, JIM WATSON

Mayor Jim Watson wanted a downtown casino and stacked the odds to ensure City Council was forced to vote his way.

Secret meetings with the Ontario Lottery and Gaming Corporation (OLG) and avoiding adequate public consultation resulted in an early vote before a complete staff report on a proposed Ottawa Casino was available to Council.

Due consideration and thorough public consultation was good enough for Toronto and Hamilton but Mayor Watson greased the wheels to secure the vote he wanted in Ottawa.

To ensure he got Council's support, the Mayor collaborated with the OLG knowing they had already said they would prefer a downtown casino. Now Jim Watson says Council's previous endorsement to expand the Rideau Carleton Raceway Slots site is just a "consideration".

If Jim Watson will let the OLG decide where to put a casino in Ottawa, what else will he decide for Council?

Contact your City Councillor and demand Council revisits this tainted decision before it is too late.

Write ncrhha@gmail.com to help us hold the OLG and council accountable.

Stalled talks. Palestinian president wants to meet Israel's new lawmakers

The Palestinian president wants to meet with newly elected Israeli parliament members to lay out his views on peace, hoping a political surge of centrists will provide an opening to resume long-stalled negotiations on a Palestinian state, a senior aide said Thursday.

President Mahmoud Abbas' main target appears to be Yair Lapid, leader of the moderate Yesh Atid (There is a Future) party, who is expected to be influential in setting the priorities of the next government.

Lapid has said he wants Israel to make a serious push for peace, though it is unclear how far he will press the issue in coalition negotiations with Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu. In recent public appearances, he has barely breached the issue, focusing instead on domestic economic concerns.

Lapid has campaigned on a domestic agenda that includes ending draft exemptions and government stipends for ultra-Orthodox Jews. But two incoming legislators from his party said

Freed Frenchwoman gets hero's welcome

Frenchwoman Florence Cassez, left, is kissed by her mother, Charlotte, after landing at Roissy airport, north of Paris, Thursday. Cassez, who spent seven years in prison in Mexico on kidnapping charges, returned to a hero's welcome in Paris, declaring she had been cleared by the Mexican court that ordered her freed. However, the justices who freed her pointedly did not rule on her guilt or innocence, but said the violations of due process, the right to consular assistance and evidentiary rules in her case were so grievous that they invalidated the original guilty verdict against her. Cassez was arrested in 2005 and convicted of helping her Mexican then-boyfriend run a kidnapping ring. CHRISTOPHE ENA/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dolours Price. Veteran IRA bomber found dead at home

An Irish Republican Army veteran who accused Sinn Fein party chief Gerry Adams of involvement in IRA killings and bombings has been found dead in her home, police and politicians said Thursday.

Dolours Price, 61, was a member of the Provisional IRA unit that launched the very first car-bomb attacks on London in 1973. She became one of Irish republicanism's most trenchant critics of Adams and his conversion to political compromise in the British territory of Northern Ireland.

Police said that her death Wednesday night at her home in Malahide, north of Dublin, was possibly the result of a drug overdose and that foul play was not suspected.

In interviews, Price repeatedly described Adams as her IRA commander in Catholic west Belfast in the early 1970s when the outlawed group was secretly abducting, executing and burying more than a dozen suspected informers in unmarked graves. Adams rejects the charges.

Ecolabel certifies there's nothing fishy about these sandwiches

Sustainable sourcing.

Program will guarantee that Alaskan pollock in McDonald's Filet-O-Fish is from ethical suppliers

McDonald's says it will be the first U.S. national restaurant chain to carry a label from a group that certifies sustainable fishing practices.

The blue "ecolabel" from the Marine Stewardship Council certifies that the Alaskan pollock used in McDonald's Filet-O-Fish sandwiches comes from suppliers with sustainable fishing practices.

Major retail chains including Walmart and Whole Foods already use the council's label. The non-profit group is paid a royalty fee from companies that use its label. For McDonald's, that means the fee would be based on sales of its fish offerings, such as the Filet-O-Fish and the Fish McBites that will be launched as a limited-time offer next month.

The Marine Stewardship

Ecolabel program

- The Marine Stewardship Council has about 300 fisheries in its ecolabel program, representing between 12 to 14 per cent of the world's fisheries, said Kerry Coughlin, the group's regional director for the Americas.

Council, which has its U.S. headquarters in Seattle and international base in London, isn't the only group that offers consumer labelling for seafood. Last year, for example, Whole Foods also stopped carrying wild-caught seafood that's "red-rated," which indicates it's either overfished or caught in a way that harms other species. The move reflects the growing concerns among consumers about the sources of their seafood.

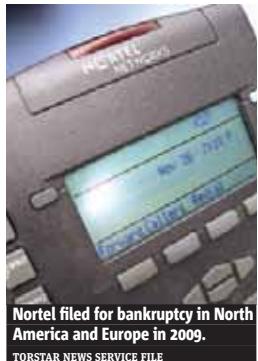

A spokeswoman for McDonald's said all U.S. stores should have the labelling by early February.

Creditor claims. Nortel-asset mediation concludes without yielding agreement

Nortel filed for bankruptcy in North America and Europe in 2009.
TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE FILE

Efforts to divide up nearly $9 billion in assets from the now-bankrupt Nortel Networks Corp. ended Thursday without an agreement.

A spokesman for the talks says Ontario Chief Justice Warren Winkler, who was leading the proceedings, concluded further efforts at mediation were no longer worthwhile.

The negotiations began in Toronto on Jan. 14 and were supposed to conclude that week. They were extended twice. This was the third attempt at settling claims against the former telecom manufacturing giant's business lines and intellectual property by about 100 creditors around the world, including companies in 20 countries on every continent except Antarctica.

The myriad of creditors include Nortel pensioners, disabled former employees, bond holders, trade creditors and governments. It was not immediately clear what next steps would be taken.

At its height, the Ottawa-based equipment provider was worth nearly $300 billion and employed more than 90,000 people. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Immigration. New visa program aims to attract startups, entrepreneurs

A new program designed to lure startup companies and entrepreneurs to Canada will launch in April.

The startup visa will be limited to those who already have the backing of a venture capital firm in Canada.

Immigration Minister Jason Kenney says it's aimed at enticing the best and brightest minds around the world to start new businesses in Canada.

The government will grant a maximum of 2,750 visas a year for each of the five years of the pilot program.

But Kenney says he only expects to see a few hundred people come through the program in the first year as companies figure out how it works.

The program is billed as the first of its kind because it offers applicants permanent residency, as opposed to programs in other countries that only offer temporary status.

The new visa seeks to replace two older immigration programs aimed at would-be business owners. The investor program and entrepreneur program were put on hold after the government decided they weren't luring enough real business to Canada.

But some caught up in a backlog of applications under those old programs are now suing the government, demanding their applications be processed.

2 Superbaugh. The Super Bowl between the San Francisco 49ers and Baltimore Ravens will see two brothers coaching against each other for the first time in Super Bowl history! John Harbaugh runs the Ravens; his younger brother, Jim, mans the 49ers. Jim, ever the strategic thinker, must be saying to John, "Yo, bro, remember I'm your kid brother. Take it easy. It's only a game."

3 Beth Reeks. Further evidence the Internet is the place to get your start: 17-year-old Beth Reeks has signed a three-book deal with Random House after her young-adult romance The Kissing Booth became a hit online. The book will now be published in paperback this spring. Reeks, the new teen queen of romance, is a young E L James — minus the erotica.

4 Red Pashmina. This grassroots campaign that started out of Peterborough, Ont., to empower and raise money for women in Afghanistan, has now attracted the attention of the UN. The two women behind the bright red scarves, Maryam Monsef and Jessica Melnik, are invited to speak at a United Nations summit in N.Y. on the status of women in March.

5 Obama. Beyoncé sang a rousing — though apparently lip-synced — rendition of the national anthem, but the real star Monday on the Capitol steps was Barack Obama, who publicly began his second term as president at his inauguration in front of 800,000 spectators chanting "O-ba-ma!" "Now, more than ever, we must do these things as one nation, as one people," he said. He has four years left to make it happen.

6 Gretzky + Leafs? Social media went nuts this week when a show on the Fan 590 discussed the rumour Wayne Gretzky might be taking over as president of the Toronto Maple Leafs, a position left vacant after the recent firing of Brian Burke. Now if this ever happened, wow. If Gretzky can't save the Leafs, no one can.

7 Arisa Cox. Many of you might remember her from the 2001 Canadian reality series The Lofters (I do). So this week when Arisa Cox was named host for the first Big Brother Canada, which debuts Feb. 27th on Slice, it made perfect sense. After all, she knows exactly what it's like to live 24-7 with other strangers while the camera watches.

8 Kutcher at Macworld. Next week is the Macworld/iWorld conference in San Francisco, and Ashton Kutcher will be there to speak about what it's like playing Steve Jobs in the biopic on the Apple icon that is slated for April release. The best part would be if Kutcher actually showed up in character as Jobs. Now that would go viral.

9 Miss O. The Oprah Effect hit Western Canada as she made appearances in Edmonton, Calgary and Vancouver, talking about everything from the weather — bloody cold! — to the lessons she's learned in life. "Every day you get to paint on the canvas that is your life," she told a sold-out crowd Monday night at Rexall Place in Edmonton. Who's better at motivating than Oprah?

10 Butt Out. This week is Non-Smoking Week in Canada, a campaign that has been running for 30 years. It's great to see so many people talking about #nonsmoking on Twitter. I quit almost 13 years ago. If you're thinking about stopping, go for it. You can do it. Don't let nicotine rule your life.

11 Man bandz. When boy bands grow up, they lose a little hair up top, gain a little more on their backs — and reunite sometimes. Yes, NKOTB, 98 Degrees and Boyz II Men are teaming up this spring and stopping in Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto. As Old Kid — er, New Kid — Donnie Wahlberg said in a statement: "Ladies, we're coming for you." Yes, it won't be girls this time.

12 Steve Nash. Captain Canada was given a loud ovation Sunday during player introductions at the ACC in Toronto. But then he and his Lakers played flat (again) in a loss to the Raptors. There are those who still wish he had signed with the Raptors during the off-season. But it's become apparent a 38-year-old Nash in the twilight of his career might not have been the right ending for this national treasure.

Mopane worms a rare delicacy

Sihle Nkomo begins to prepare harvested mopane worms at her home in Gwanda, Zimbabwe.

In Zimbabwe, as well as most parts of southern Africa, mopane worms are a staple part of the diet in rural areas and are considered a delicacy in the cities. They can be eaten dry, as crunchy as potato chips, or cooked and drenched in sauce.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gastronomical goodness

- A Zimbabwean nutritionist, Marlon Chidemo, says the worms are high in healthy nutrients and contain three times the amount of protein as beef.
- He says eating worms is less taxing on the environment than consuming beef because it takes far fewer leaves to produce worms than it does feed to produce the same amount of beef.

Get to know the quality of grubs

At the local market, mopane worms are quite popular with residents who buy a cup or two of them and eat them immediately.

The market is abuzz with activity, with most stalls strategically displaying the delicacy so people cannot miss them. Vendors offer free samples. The mopane worms are graded according to size and the area where they were harvested.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

- Dried mopane worms have become a multimillion-dollar industry, even exported to countries like South Africa and Botswana. They can be found in African restaurants in Paris.

- The worm is the large caterpillar of the Gonimbrasia belina species. It got its name from chomping the leaves of mopane trees.

Jason Statham stars in Parker — a movie without a lot of payoff. HANDOUT

Reel Guys

CROUSE AND
MARK BRESLIN

The heist goes all wrong

Bad + Bad = Bad. Steve Gow joins Richard Crouse this week to help him call out Parker for being a mistake-ridden flop of a film

Richard: Steve, the most shocking thing about Parker is that Jason Statham has hair in the opening scene. His usually close-cropped do is hidden under a wig that makes him look a bit like George Clooney's English brother. Other than that, this is as by-the-book as it gets. Did you buy into the story at all?

Steve: Not really. But as shocking as Statham is brandishing a wig as Donald E. Westlake's popular revenge-seeking character, he wasn't half as unconvincing as Jennifer Lopez when she pops up as the desperate, danger-seeking real estate agent. Was that bad casting or just a bad character?

RC: Her character is baffling. As a pseudo-love interest and almost co-conspirator, she's as grating as her co-star Nick Nolte's voice. If an Emery board could speak, it would sound like the rasp Nolte's vocal chords produce these days. For me, though, the moral of the movie is really skewed. The movie is so intent on selling the idea that the vengeful killer is really a good guy that a character at the end actually wonders if he is some kind of angel. Could it be that in this world bad + bad = good?

SG: I suppose Jason Statham is today's ideal mainstream anti-hero. After all, as mediocre as most of his films are, director Taylor Hackford is at least consistent in delivering what Statham does best — look sinister and kick butt. However, as absurdly indestructible as he is here, the film is too morose to be much fun.

RC: Statham is consistent,

Synopsis

After a daring robbery goes bad, thief Parker (Jason Statham) is double-crossed and left for dead. But because the movie is called Parker, he doesn't succumb to the gunshot wounds. Instead, he vows to put things right between him and the gang who cheated him out of his $200,000 split of the loot. "If you make a deal, both sides have to honour it, otherwise there's chaos," he says. "And I won't let chaos take over my life." Except that things get chaotic when he hatches an elaborate plan, involving his real estate agent (Jennifer Lopez), to get vengeance and his money.

Star ratings:

• Richard: ••••

• Steve: ••••

I'll give you that. He has two characters: Statham Character number one in which he plays a loner with a past who must protect a loved one and Statham Character number two, which is the loner with a past who must protect a youthful innocent. Here he's playing number one. The loved one is money, although there are a number of other characters that could easily have taken the place of the greenbacks.

SG: I agree. Concentrating on a compelling sidekick almost surely would've helped solve the questionably ineffectual supporting cast here.

One last thing — what kind of a name is Parker anyhow? That lame moniker sounds like Statham should be serving high tea and crumpets to the Crawley family on Downton Abbey, not cracking the skulls of crooked criminals.

Hoult: Undead man talking

Warm Bodies. Actor shares what it's like to take on a role that requires only one facial expression

NED EHRBAR

Metro World News in Hollywood

Nicholas Hoult has tackled trying to get the girl when you're an awkward tween (in About a Boy), a ruthless high-schooler (in TV's Skins) and a blue-haired mutant (in X-Men: First Class). But those challenges pale in comparison to Warm Bodies, in which he tries to win over a girl (Teresa Palmer) despite the fact that he's a flesh-eating zombie.

How tough is it doing a role that's basically one facial expression for most of the film?

Surprisingly easy, actually (laughs). Narrows down your options and what you have to do at work, and not a lot of dialogue to learn, which is beautiful. But yeah, I read the script and I was like, "This could be a cool film," and then I was like, "Oh, it's kind of tricky, though, isn't it? You don't get to say a lot, and you've got to move and act like a zombie, but you've also got to have this audience care for you and want you to succeed and have this girl care for you enough and fall for you, and there's a lot to do." With Teresa, it was just basically watching her do scenes the whole time, her just doing monologue after monologue and then I'd go, "Yeah, keep you safe. Hungry. Eat, whatever."

Have you heard every zombie joke in the world at this point?

You know what, I've made a few terrible ones myself. I've said, like, "Oh, he's a character I really liked and wanted to bring to life." Idiot. I said of the scenes with me and Rob Corddry, "I found it really difficult not to corpse" (which is British slang for laughing during a scene). So I've made a few terrible zombie jokes, but I haven't actually been on the receiving end of that many so far.

OK, zombies versus vampires. Where do you stand?

Who would win in a fight? Or the transition from vampire to zombie time?

As far as pop culture.

You know what? I'm trying to think. Aside from Twilight, what other vampire films have there been particularly recently? That's the prominent one. To be honest with you, I would probably have to go with the zombie thing just because I really like Shaun of the Dead and Zombieland and those sort of things, and 28 Days Later and stuff, so I think I'd go for the zombie — and not just because I played one in this film.

After having done this film, do you think you'd have trouble getting excited about doing a more traditional romantic comedy?

I don't know. I mean, I'm a sucker for a rom-com. You know, you feel good and you get all gooey. But I wouldn't want to do one of those ones that's very run of the mill, out of the box, off you go, pay $10 to go and see it and then sit there and nothing new happens. So it's tricky. I'd like to be able to do all types of films. Action, drama, romance, all of them.

I don't think anyone's going to try to stop you.

So far. Not with force yet, anyway.

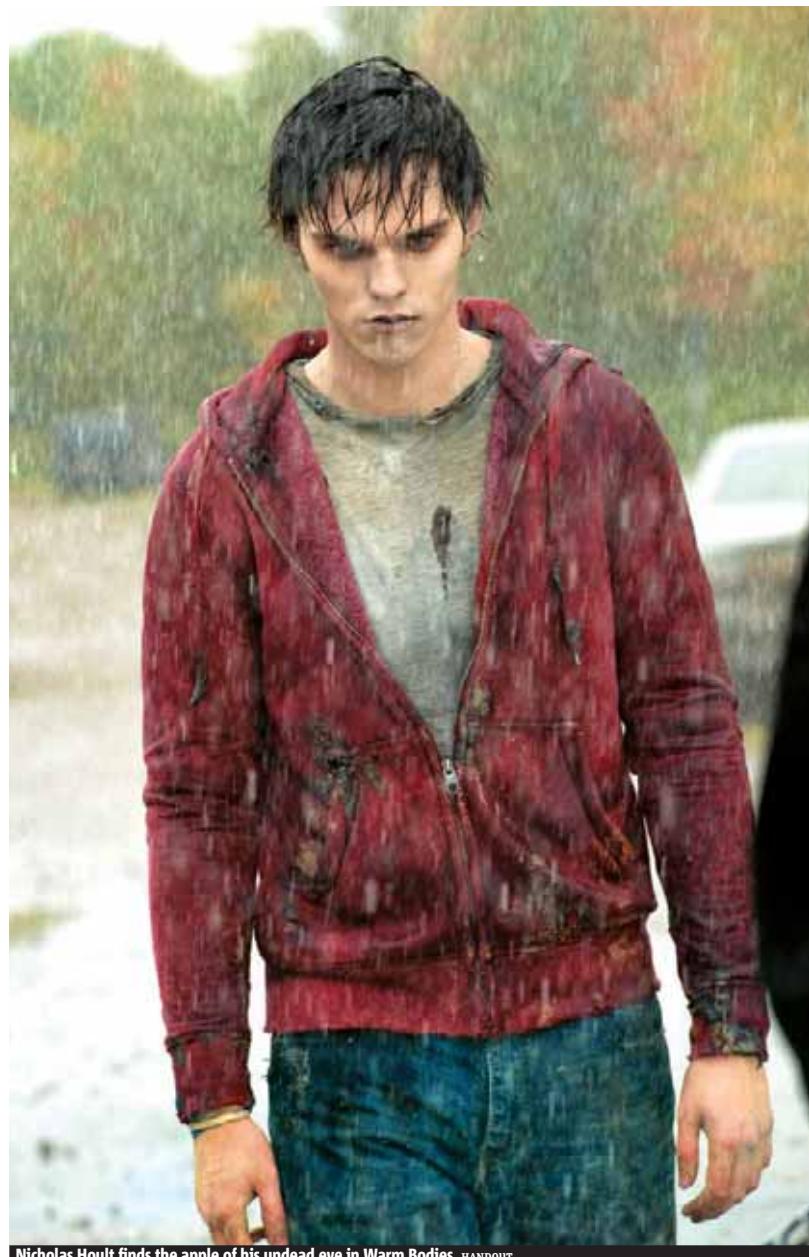

Just this year you've got films in several different genres coming out.

Yeah, I've got a fairy tale family adventure movie, Jack the Giant Slayer. There's mild peril. There's giants that want to eat humans, so you know, I wouldn't take a really young kid to it.

Jason Momoa relishes getting a bona fide Rocky sucker punch

Bullet to the Head.

Brawly actor isn't a stranger to tough guy roles, but even he was star-struck working with Sylvester Stallone

scene@metronews.ca

A glance at Jason Momoa's IMDB page reveals that he is best known for playing roles described as a "vengeful barbarian warrior" or "powerful warlord." The burly six-foot-four-inch actor is famous for roles in Conan the Barbarian and Game of Thrones and often plays tough guys.

Next up he plays a muscle-bound mercenary in Bullet to the Head, an action flick the Hollywood Reporter called "beefy, brainless fun."

It's another case of typecasting, perhaps, but it did give him the chance to go mano-a-mano with one of the masters of the genre, Sylvester Stallone.

"You can't say enough good things about Stallone," says the Hawaiian-born hunk. "Truly, he is an icon. A legend, and so good at what he does."

Momoa even went through a special initiation rite courtesy of the superstar.

While shooting an epic fight scene on the film's New Orleans set, the older actor suggested he "tune me up" with a couple of real looking hits. Promising to pull his punches, Stallone instead landed a "monstrous" knock to the younger actor's side. Second take, same thing — "He just crumbled me," Momoa says — and that's the shot that made it into the film.

"He got me a couple of times," Momoa says. "He's the old bull. It's fun to get in there. I'm 30 years younger than him, so it's cool. Rocky punching me in the ribs. It's like a shout from the rock."

But how does someone raise a family when their day job is pretending to decapitate people on screen? Momoa, who has a young daughter and son with actress Lisa Bonet, says his family always comes to visit when he's working.

"My daughter was actually on set when I ripped a guy's throat out on Game of Thrones," he says. "It's hilarious."

"She was with the wardrobe lady, knitting. I said, 'Are you OK sweetie?' She said, 'Yeah Papa,' and went on knitting."

He admits it's an unusual way to raise the kids and when they get older it might be more difficult.

"School's pretty expensive," he says. "I may as well get a teacher and bring them with us. I'd rather have my kids going to the Louvre than learning about it in a book."

Jason Momoa stars in Bullet to the Head, opening next Friday. GETTY IMAGES

The movie's action centres around a luxurious retirement home for aging musicians. Tom Courtenay, Pauline Collins and Billy Connolly play a once-famous vocal group living there quietly until their diva, Jean (Dame Maggie Smith), arrives. Her presence stirs up old feelings, but also might be the key to rescuing the cash-strapped retirement home. What could've been a depressing look at aging or a "loveable old coot" movie is, instead, funny, elegant and unexpectedly warm.

Have you got unwanted gold & silver you want to sell?

Find out what your old gold & silver items are REALLY worth.

GOLD & SILVER JEWELLERY • WATCHES • FLATWARE • TEA SETS • COINS

A word from the Founder...

"Back in 2008, we started with a simple vision to provide a safe, convenient and intelligent alternative to pawn shops and cash-for-gold companies. The response has been overwhelming. We're proud to say that we've stayed true to our original goals and are now considered to be among the most trusted gold and silver buyers anywhere in Canada. So if you've ever thought about selling your gold and silver, please give us an opportunity to earn your business."

Matthew MacQuarrie

How Our Prices Compare...

Everyone says they 'pay more', but do they really? Many companies in our industry have misleading advertising that make exaggerated payout claims. But remember what your mother told you, "If something sounds too good to be true..." Recycle Frog customer payouts are always fair and consistently rank among the highest in the industry, often 25 to 100% higher than less ethical competitors. Our significant growth and impressive list of corporate, charitable and non-profit partners is a testament to how we do business.

The BEST Service in the Industry...

Recycle Frog was recently nominated by its customers and recognized by Ottawa Tourism's "Stars of the City" program, for exceptional customer service. The award promotes, educates and encourages customer service excellence – and recognizes those individuals and organizations who deliver it.

Recycle Frog is a locally owned and operated business with deep roots in the community. We live, work and play here - and we CARE about each and every customer, regardless of how much or little they have - always ensuring they receive the best possible service AND a competitive offer. Don't get fooled. Get paid fairly. Meet Recycle Frog in person today and find out for yourself why we're considered to be the best in the business!

Knock, knock: You have two children

Seed. Sperm donor tracked down by his kids on new TV show

JON
sctn@metronews.ca

What would happen if a care-free bachelor answered his front door and discovered he was father to a nine-year-old boy and a teenage girl?

The question occurred to Joseph Raso when a friend became pregnant via a sperm bank. Fascinated by the process of choosing a stranger to be the biological father to your child, he wondered what it would be like if the donor entered into your life unexpectedly.

"How do kids change you? And what if it went zero to 60 and suddenly you have a nine-year-old?" he says. "How does it affect the donor and the other families?"

Seed was born. It's a TV show about Harry, whose bachelor bliss has long been funded by regular deposits at the sperm bank. One day, one of those donations learns how to hack a computer to find out who his biological father is — and knocks on Harry's door. Soon enough, a teenage girl follows, along with a woman pregnant with another of Harry's donations.

For Harry, the challenge is the tug of war between his desire to be with his biological children and his desire to pick up hot women at the bar.

One of Harry's entanglements is Rose, a beautiful, neurotic single woman whose date with the sperm bank leads to an accidental relationship with Harry.

"From that point forward, their lives are entwined," says Carrie-Lynn Neales, who plays Rose.

"She's just wildly insecure," she adds during a break in filming. Rose wants a child, but doesn't want a father to the child. She wants to be single and independent, but wants a relationship with an amazing guy called Aaron.

When asked if bar-tending Harry is typical of the guys she knows, Neales laughs and tries to compose an answer that won't offend any of her friends. "You'll find aspects of Harry and Aaron in this age bracket," she says diplomatically.

Seed is Neales' first starring role. "It's amazing — really a dream come true," she says. "It's a huge learning curve."

The best part of selling out for Folgers

Gavin DeGraw.

Singer/songwriter heading up competition for new Folgers jingle — with a $25K prize

LINDA LABAN

Listen up would-be songwriters — and Gavin DeGraw fans, too.

The pop singer/songwriter is heading up Folgers' competition for aspiring songwriters to create a new version of the coffee company's jingle. The Best Part of Wakin' Up is Folgers in Your Cup, which nets the winner $25,000.

But don't expect DeGraw to add his take on the tune. He is more of a mentor.

"My role is to inspire people to get involved, take a chance, because at some point I was also undiscovered and looking for every opportunity to have someone hear me," he says. "This is a great opportunity for someone who hasn't been seen yet."

DeGraw knows all about the career boost being attached to a brand offers. His song I Don't Want To Be was chosen as the theme song to the show One Tree Hill.

"That was my lucky break," he says. "I had released my album and it was doing well, but the opportunity of having your voice heard on a platform like that, there's great odds that millions of people will hear it."

The boost did help his 2003 debut, Chariot, sell more than a million copies.

And DeGraw is still soundtracking: "I wrote a lovely song with my friend Colbie Caillat," he says of We Both Know, which will be in Nicholas Sparks' latest movie adaptation, Safe Haven (out on Valentine's Day and starring Julianne Hough and Josh Duhamel).

But that's not all.

"I'm pretty deep into the next album already. I'll be writing a lot here in Los Angeles.

"I was in Miami producing a couple of songs for it. I'll be doing more in Nashville. It's good to stay busy, right?"

True stories of brainwashing: This week on TV

Viewers can catch up on the new comedy series 1600 Penn, about the First Family of the U.S., with Friday's back-to-back episodes. In the first, President Gilchrist (Bill Pullman) and his generals hold a group-therapy session while his wife (Jenna Elfman) does some damage control. In the next instalment, the president hosts a ball for a cranky senator and son Skip (Josh Gad) wants to attend the bash with a fetching mailroom clerk. (Citytv)

Brainwashed is a new series profiling the true stories of those who've been coerced into committing extreme acts. In this second instalment on Friday, Predator Prophet, we learn of a single mom who fell in love with a self-proclaimed Mormon Prophet and became his "spiritual wife." He eventually persuaded her to sell her possessions, give up her children and commit adultery. But even when he was imprisoned, she wasn't convinced to leave him. (History)

Maroon 5 frontman and The Voice judge Adam Levine makes another appearance on Saturday Night Live, but this time as host, not musical guest. The latter role will be filled out by Compton, Calif.-bred rapper Kendrick Lamar, who's earned rave reviews for his latest album, good kid, m.A.A.d city. (Global)

Paul Merton's Adventures follows the British comedian as he visits fascinating spots around the world. In the debut episode Saturday, he boards the biggest luxury ocean liner in the world and tours the Caribbean. Along the way, he gets lost on a reef in Mexico and meets the Jamaican dogsled team as well as a ferocious tiger. (Discovery World HD)

NEW YEAR CARNIVAL

Chinese music, dance and acrobatics take centre stage as the touring Chinese New Year Carnival comes to Ottawa.

"It'll be a wonderful, wonderful show. We're very excited about it," says Snookie Lomow, PR consultant for the Canada-China Cultural Development Association, which presents the annual performing arts showcase. "We're bringing 80 performers from China."

This year will be the Year of the Snake according to the Chinese lunar calendar, and the CCCDA has lined up a special partnership to celebrate, as the China National Performing Arts Troupe teams up with China's National Broadcasting Orchestra for synthesis never seen before by North American audiences.

"In the past we've never had a live orchestra," Lomow says. "It's always been piped in or taped music. It's never been a live orchestra, and the musicians that are coming are bringing their authentic Chinese instruments, the erhu and all these really cool Chinese instruments that you not normally get to see or hear."

The seven-city Canadian leg of Chinese New Year Festival's tour also includes stops in Quebec City, Montreal, Sherbrooke, Toronto, Kitchener-Waterloo and Edmonton, giving audiences a taste of China's rich and varied multi-ethnic culture.

"There's magic, there's dancing, there's acrobats, there's singing, and there's musical solos," Lomow says.

Just one of the Girls

Music. Christopher Owens on the story of his new concept album

scene@metronews.ca

After disbanding Girls last year, the first project that singer Christopher Owens chose to tackle under his own name was a concept album called Lysandre.

The work — full of saxophones and flutes and Owens' take on classic pop-song architecture — might seem like the furthest thing from his previous band, but the narrative arc is all about Girls' first tour in 2008.

"It starts out being excited to go on that tour and not really knowing what to expect, because I hadn't done any tours before that," he says.

While he's dealing with his Girls experience in a very specific way on this tour, he won't play any Girls songs.

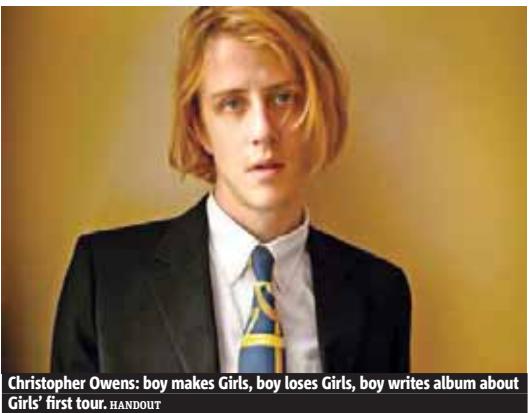

"I will play those songs again in the future," he says. "But I feel like with this album and this tour, it's clearly a thing — and it's kind of obvious that it will be a show of this album."

But Owens wrote the material for Lysandre shortly after that first tour, while Girls was still going.

"I didn't put (the songs) away to not work on them with Girls or anything," he says.

"They were just seven songs out of the 60 or so that I wrote in those couple of years. And I guess I always kind of thought they would be Girls songs."

Christopher Owens: boy makes Girls, boy loses Girls, boy writes album about Girls' first tour. HANDOUT

Cruise at the heart of Scientology's strategy

Tom Cruise isn't only the most famous Scientologist, he's also the most important figure in the controversial religion.

and the Prison of Belief, tells E! News.

He also says having a movie star as the face of Scientology was always part of the plan.

"From the very beginning of the Church of Scientology, they established it in Los Angeles, they created the Celebrity Center there in Hollywood, and the whole goal was to take over the entertainment industry and use celebrities as kind of a product endorsement for their brand," Wright says.

Kristen Bell terrified of her impending childbirth

Kristen Bell seemed to hint during an interview with Ellen DeGeneres that she's going to give birth to a boy, but the House of Lies star kept coy with a "maybe" when pressed.

Bell had said that fiancé Dax Shepard was looking forward to "all the off-roading he'll have in this tiny partner," but she says that doesn't mean it couldn't be a daughter.

"Do you have to be a boy to off-road? Absolutely not!" Bell said. "I think he's going to force (the baby), even if it's a sloth, to off-road."

One thing Bell was willing to admit, though, is that she's not looking forward to

Cheers to Robert Burns

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therewineguy liquidassets@eastlink.ca

I have fond memories of Robert Burns.

Growing up in Halifax, it was a standard post-Saturday-night-on-the-town ritual to enjoy a little fast food in Victoria Park, along Spring Garden Road, before the walk home. The best seat in the house was along the pedestal of the life size monument to the bard that's been standing there since 1919.

Though I don't remember drinking much in the way of Scottish booze back in the day, I'll be raising a glass of something tonight in celebration of Robert Burns Day.

Scotland's claim to liquid fame is scotch — a polarizing whisky typically drunk straight. Rich, aggressive and swimming in personality, it can be a hard glass to swallow for most.

A fine dram to get your palate wet is Bowmore 12 Year Old ($45.99 to $64.99); the first recorded single malt distillery (back in 1779) on the island of Islay.

Softer than your average Islay whisky, it offers a rounded, honeyed malt flavour massaged by hints of the classic smoky/peaty character that's made the island famous.

If the thought of drinking scotch without mix doesn't blow your bagpipe, try softening the spirit by adding a touch of spring water.

Beyond 2010: Sochi next up in Canada's podium pursuit

Own the Podium.

Taxpayer, corporate money behind Canada's athletes as they prepare for 2014 Games

Canada's motto for the 2014 Winter Olympics and Paralympics in Sochi, Russia, is to "maintain the gain" from the 2010 Games in Vancouver and Whistler, B.C.

The organizations responsible for making that happen laud the federal government and corporate community for keeping the financial pump primed for athletes with the Sochi Games on the horizon.

Bal Gosal, Canada's minister of state for sport, and Own the Podium chief executive officer Anne Merklinger, both emerged from a bobsled clad in skintight suits on Thursday in Calgary to trumpet the almost $40 million going to Canada's winter athletes in 2012-13.

"We have more money in the year going into the Olympic

By the numbers

Canada won 26 medals in 2010 to finish third overall in medals won, but topped the gold-medal count with 14, a record for any country at a single Winter Games.

and Paralympic Games than ever before," Merklinger said.

That's $31 million in direct funding to 11 winter-sport organizations, plus another $6.9 million to athletes via the athletes assistance program this winter.

"We maintained all the sports' funding in the 2012 budget," Gosal said. "I can say proudly that sport funding was kept intact."

"When we look at the 2010 Vancouver Olympics, how the whole nation came together, sport is something that unites communities, that brings the nation together and the pride we feel when we see our athletes performing at the world-stage level."

OTP distributes those taxpayer dollars based on a sport's ability to win medals.

Thursday's event staged on the finishing dock of Canada's Olympic Park's sliding track came a day after the Canadian Olympic Committee's announcement in Toronto of an eight-year sponsorship deal with Canadian Tire.

OTP oversees the competitive aspects of an athlete's life between Olympic and Paralympic Games. The COC looks after their needs on the ground at Games and prepares them for the Games environment.

Leafs' Lupul lost for at least 6 weeks

Toronto Maple Leafs forward Joffrey Lupul is expected to miss at least six weeks due to a fractured forearm.

He suffered the injury in the second period of Wednesday night's 5-2 road win over the Pittsburgh Penguins. Lupul was in front of the net during a power play when he was hit in the arm by a slapshot from teammate Dion Phaneuf.

Lupul, who signed a five-year contract extension last Sunday, did not record a point in three games this season.

MLB. Upton brothers join forces with Atlanta Braves

Justin Upton is having a family reunion in Atlanta.

Arizona traded its star right-fielder to the Braves on Thursday in a seven-player deal that sent former all-star infielder Martin Prado to the Diamondbacks.

For the first time since he was a high school freshman, Upton will have older brother B.J. Upton as a teammate.

The brothers combine with Jason Heyward, who won a Gold Glove in 2012.

"If we push ourselves to the next level, I feel with the extra push from each other there's no question we can be the best outfield in baseball," Justin Up-

Australian Open

Azarenka fights nerves to make final

Victoria Azarenka had to endure some anxious moments before and after her win over American teenager Sloane Stephens.

Li Na wasn't flustered at all in an easy victory over No. 2-ranked Maria Sharapova.

Li will play for the Australian Open title against Azarenka, who ended Stephens' unexpected run to the semifinals that included a quarter-final upset of Serena Williams.

Another player who had little trouble Thursday was defending champion Novak Djokovic, who overpowered David Ferrer 6-2, 6-2, 6-1 in just one hour, 29 minutes.

Djokovic will attempt to win his third consecutive Australian Open when he plays the winner of Friday's semifinal between Roger Federer and Andy Murray on Sunday.

Azarenka needed six match points to finish off a 6-1, 6-4 victory over Stephens that included a medical timeout.

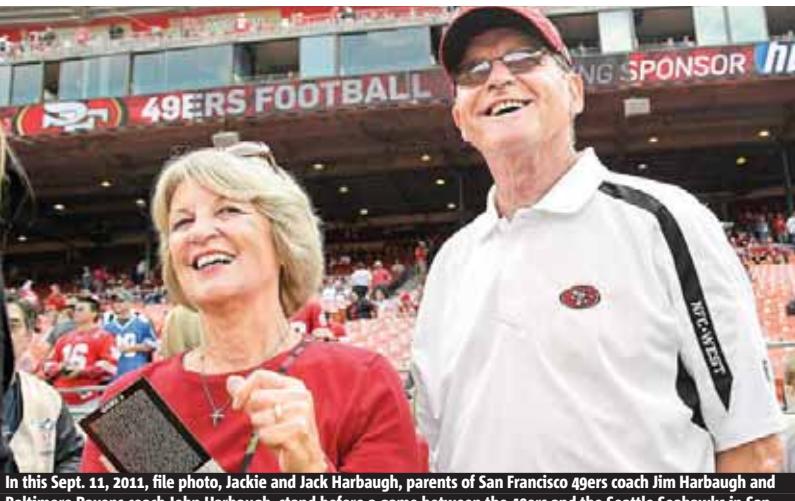

Australian Open officials said the tournament doctor reported that Azarenka had left knee and rib injuries.

"I just felt a little bit overwhelmed. I realized I'm one step away from the final and nerves got into me for sure," Azarenka said.

Harbaughs in stands vow to stay neutral

Super Bowl 47 lead-up.

Family of Ravens and 49ers coaches not saying where they'll be sitting on game day

Jackie Harbaugh will wear a neutral-coloured outfit, still to be determined. Her daughter, Joani Crean, little sister to coaching brothers John and Jim Harbaugh, plans to sport all black at the Super Bowl to show no allegiances whatsoever.

"I am wearing whatever fits that day," Crean quipped.

The entire Harbaugh family — a close-knit, hypercompetitive crew that also includes Indiana basketball coach Tom Crean — realizes it has already won big. They got their Super Bowl victory on Sunday, when each coach did his part to ensure a family reunion in New Orleans next week, with John's Baltimore Ravens facing off against Jim's San Francisco 49ers in the first Super Bowl with sibling coaches on opposite sidelines.

One Harbaugh will haul home the Lombardi Trophy from the Big Easy.

And, no, the family members haven't decided where to sit for the Feb. 3 NFL title game at the Superdome — or at least they aren't revealing it if they have.

Quoted

"I am going to be neutral in the game, and I know one is going to win and one is going to lose, but I would really like to end in a tie. Can the NFL do that?"

Jackie Harbaugh, mother of John and Jim Harbaugh, jokes about watching the Super Bowl.

"We are neutral in the Super Bowl, and we are just excited that they have brought their teams to the pinnacle of sports," Jackie Harbaugh said Thursday. "The Super Bowl is the ultimate accomplishment for them and for their teams and for all of the extended football family and all of the teams who have participated in this great game. We are excited for that type of thing."

Her sons, all of 15 months apart, have tried to downplay this matchup from the moment it developed — each wanting to keep the focus on the players on the field.

Fortunately for the Harbaugh folks, they've been through this once before, albeit on a slightly smaller stage: Prime time on Thanksgiving night 2011. John's Ravens won 16-6 at home.

"We experienced that last year at Thanksgiving," Jack Harbaugh said, "the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Relationship hoax. Te'o plays voice mails from 'girlfriend' on Couric show

The person Manti Te'o says was pretending to be his online girlfriend told the Notre Dame linebacker "I love you" in voice mails played during his interview with Katie Couric.

Taped earlier this week and broadcast Thursday, the hour-long talk show featured three voice mails that Te'o claims were left for him last year. Te'o said they were from the person he believed to be Lennay Kekua, a woman he had fallen for online but never met face-to-face.

After the first message was played, Te'o said: "It sounds like a girl, doesn't it?"

"It does," Couric responded.

The interview was the All-American's first on camera since his tale of inspired play after the deaths of his grandmother and girlfriend on the same day in September unravelled as a hoax in an exposé by Deadspin.com on Jan. 16.

Couric addressed speculation the tale was concocted by Te'o as a way to cover up his sexual orientation. Asked if he were gay, Te'o said "no" with a laugh. "Far from it. Faaaar from that."

He also said he was "scared" and "didn't know what to do" after receiving a call on Dec. 6 — two days before the Heisman Trophy presentation — from a person who claimed to be his "dead" girlfriend.

The first voice mail was from what was supposed to be Kekua's first day of chemotherapy for leukemia.

"Hi, I am just letting you know I got here and I'm getting ready for my first session and, um, just want to call you to keep you posted. I miss you. I love you. Bye," the person said.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Convincing voice?

- Couric suggested the person who left the voice mail messages might have been Ronaiah Tuiasosopo, a 22-year-old man from California, who Te'o said has apologized to him for pulling the hoax.
- Tuiasosopo has not spoken publicly since news of the hoax broke.

Face of the Lions dealt to Riders

The longtime face of the B.C. Lions' franchise is heading to Saskatchewan.

Geroy Simon, the CFL's all-time receiving yards leader, was traded to the Roughriders on Thursday in exchange for receiver Justin Harper and a third-round pick in the 2014 Canadian college draft.

Simon, a two-time Grey Cup champ and six-time CFL all-star, has recorded 15,787 yards over his 14-year career.

"The fans in B.C. have treated me as one of their own since I arrived here in 2001, and I'll never forget it," Simon said. "I'm looking forward to a new and exciting opportunity in Saskatchewan."

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

So long as you enjoy what you are doing, you won't care in the slightest what other people think. Life is simply too short to worry about whether the world sees you as a "good guy" or a "bad guy".

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

The only danger today is that because you insist on everything being thought out and planned in advance you might lose the spark of spontaneity that turns good ideas into great ideas. Be more open to alternative viewpoints.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Today's Sun-Uranus link is sure to change your life for the better in some way. Exactly how and to what extent is impossible to know but by this time tomorrow you will have both a wider and deeper view of reality.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Don't limit yourself to tried and trusted methods. Try something new for a change. Uranus, planet of changes, is urging you to be a bit more adventurous, especially on the work front where you should be taking the lead.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

You must live up to your beliefs, even if it brings you into conflict with people you would prefer not to make enemies of. You are entitled to think for yourself and to express your opinions, loudly if needs be.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You have been ignoring a number of warning signals and that's not a good idea. Today's Sun-Uranus link will again indicate where you have been going wrong and this time you must take appropriate action.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Try not to exert yourself too much today. Given the choice between doing more or doing less, choose the latter without hesitation. You've done your bit, so treat yourself to a break.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

If you are typical of your sign, you sometimes find it hard to think outside certain limits or boundaries. But, today's Sun-Uranus link will shatter any barriers that are holding you back. The word "impossible" should not exist.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You could easily mislead yourself today about an issue that seems unimportant but is likely to have far-reaching consequences. Check every relevant fact. Don't take anything on trust, not even what your own senses tell you.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Forget about perfection today. Just aim to be as good as you can be at what you do and be happy with that. It's always good to set yourself new goals but it's not good to make them unreachable.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

The Sun in your sign makes a positive link to your ruling planet Uranus today, which in plain language means that all your best traits will come to the forefront. Others will see you as some kind of genius.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

You must not be indecisive today, because an opportunity will arrive out of the blue and if you don't make use of it immediately it will pass you by just as quickly. You may not feel confident, but act as if you are. SALLY BROMPTON
